

I am writing in regards to the FCC and the LNP issue due to go into effect November 0f 2002. I believe the FCC should not buckle under presure and allow the rule to be effective as is planned. This is a great way to create more competition in the wireless industry. It has been along time coming and now the FCC just needs to DO IT.

Consumers have been waiting for this as well and all around this ruling will be a positive one for both business and consumer alike.
